

PATROLMAN HELD AS HIGHWAYMAN

Denies Charge, but Evidence of Woman Victim Causes Bail to Be Refused

SAYS BRIBE WAS OFFERED

Bernard Callahan, a patrolman, arrested yesterday charged with holding up and beating a woman, denied the charge today before Magistrate Carson in Central Station.

Callahan, who has been on the police force for two weeks, and who lives at 1223 North Ralston street, said he went out on a party with his brother Saturday and has no recollection of committing the robbery he is charged with.

The accused patrolman took this stand despite evidence against him in the form of a ring found in his possession and identified by Mrs. Annie Nowasad, of 1940 Callowhill street, whom he is alleged to have held up.

Mrs. Nowasad said she was visited today by Callahan's wife, who she says offered her $50 to stay away from City Hall during the hearing.

"I would have refused a bribe of $10,000," she said.

Mrs. Nowasad testified she was accosted by Callahan on the Parkway, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets, early Sunday morning. She said the patrolman, who was in plain clothes, played a revolver to her temple and asked her for her money. When she told him she had none she said he knocked her down and then kicked her.

During the scuffle a police badge fell from the man's vest, and it was this which led to his arrest yesterday.

"It isn't true that I struck the woman," said Callahan. "I have never in my life hit a woman."

"Did you join the police force to commit robbery?" asked Magistrate Carson.

"No," was the prisoner's reply. "I didn't rob the woman. I don't know how the ring came into my possession."

He was held without bail for court.

WILSON TO WORK FOR WORLD PEACE

Will Leave to Historians Task of Interpreting Paris Conference Events

GREETES HARVARD STUDENTS

By the Associated Press

Washington, Feb. 22.—President Wilson, in an address today to a delegation from the Woodrow Wilson Club of Harvard University, at the White House, declared he would bend his efforts to the last in supporting the cause of world peace.

To the group of six Harvard undergraduates whom he received in the company of Mrs. Wilson in his study, the President said that he would leave to historians the task of interpreting the events of the Paris Peace Conference.

Declaring that if he ever devoted himself again to writing, it would be along impersonal lines, the President said he most preferred to spend the remainder of his days in advancing the cause of world peace and to that end he would give his whole strength and time.

Robert C. Stuart, Jr., who headed the delegation, told the President that the Harvard Woodrow Wilson Club wished upon the anniversary of the birth of Washington to extend their greeting to "you, the great American of our generation," and that inspired by Wilsonian ideals, the club purposed to perpetuate the ideals to which the President had given concrete expression.

Mrs. Wilson, who was standing beside the President, apparently much moved by the tribute expressed by the college men, expressed a wish that she might make a speech, but she would not because she never had.

The President shook hands with each of the members of the delegation and chatted with them informally after their formal acknowledgment of their tribute.

He declared he was deeply moved by the evidence which they brought to him that the cause of world peace and the principles for which he had fought had been espoused by a new generation of Americans.

Members of the delegation after their visit to the President described him in good spirits and said they gained the impression that he was quite capable of conducting for a long time a vigorous campaign in behalf of world peace.

A STATEMENT BY THE Philadelphia Suburban Gas & Electric Company

To Our Consumers.—

The whole matter of this company's rates, with full facts appertaining thereto, is now in the hands of the Public Service Commission. This body, representing our Commonwealth, is above coercion by any individual or corporation. It is, therefore, quite irrelevant for this company to enter into any sort of a controversy with the general public on the question of rates.

It is apparent, however, that this company's policies are being unjustly attacked by certain parties and interests; that our rates are being misconstrued in point of fairness; and that the facts relating to our operating costs and our earnings are being widely misrepresented by the uninformed. We, therefore, with reluctance direct your attention to a few salient points.

Due to the extraordinary and unexpected increase in the price of coal and gas oil during the summer of 1920, our earnings were so adversely affected that in some cases the actual operating costs were not earned, and through this decrease in the earning power, our credit was impaired, thereby hampering us in the matter of extending our facilities. On account of these conditions we instituted rate increases properly filed, advertised and posted in accordance with law. Remonstrances were received and hearings accordingly were held before the Public Service Commission. At these hearings it developed that a satisfactory determination could not be decided upon until a complete valuation of the property had been made.

This valuation the Commission ordered us to produce and it was further ordered that the inventory be completed by July 1, 1921, and the valuation finished by October 1, 1921. We therefore engaged the Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation, engineers of world-wide reputation, to make the valuation. Present indications are that the work will be completed considerably in advance of the time limits prescribed.

We stand ready at all times to meet our consumers in any reasonable demand they may make, but in the light of present conditions, we deem it proper to rest our case with the Commission and await their action. We cannot, therefore, in fairness to either the public or ourselves, become engaged in an unofficial hearing of our case.

MORRIS W. STROUD,
President
February 21, 1921.
